The schedules of the tariff bill were completed today by the Ways and Means Committee, and a portion of the afternoon was devoted to the administrative features of the bill. Republicans think the bill will not be submitted before Saturday next, while the Democrats expect to submit it by Thursday. There is no certainty of a of House Democrats on the tariff bill, as some Democrats, most anxious fo the changes in the bill, are opposed to a caucus. SENATE.—The resolution offered yesterday by Senator Hoar, asking for information as to Hawaii, and the resolution offered by Senator Peffer, yesterday, were entitled to the Geary act, and is not anxious to preference in the morning hour. REGULAR SESSION.

Senator Cullom fired the first gun in the battle over the repeal of the Federal election laws, and succeeded in drawing a sharp return fire from Senator Hill of New York. Mr. Cullom asked if the mandate of a corrupt judge, like Maynard, should determine the complexion of a legislature which elects a Senator, or the brawn and muscle of a McKane corrupt that the settlement of the Chinese already, here, or who may hereafter come legally, and the protection

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Cullom attacked the New York ma-chine and Maynard, and was interrupted with a reminder from Senator Hill that the election referred to for the Murderer. would not have controlled the New York Senate, and whether or not there York Senate, and whether or not there was anything criminal in that election was not relevant to the present question. Cullom retorted that the action of Maynard inaugurated the scheme which resulted in changing the character of the Legislature.

Senator Hill desired to inform the Senator and the country that his state-ment was not a correct one. A further colloquy ensued, Senator Cullom maintaining and Senator Hill denying that the result of the recent election was an indication of the Republican protective policy.

Senator Cullom then went on with his speech, referring to the pulling down of the American flag at Hawaii, which could not have been accomplished by all the power of monarchia? Europe, but which had been committed by the order of an American President, upon the advice and recommendation of a "newly-baptized Democratic Sec-retary of State." (Laughter.) Senator Stewart addressed the Sen-ate in favor of repeal of the Federal election laws, and soon drifted into a discussion of the financial question, and attributed the evils complained of to the gold standard. The Senate then went into executive session, and, at 4 o'clock, adjourned until tomorrow.

atonement and the revelations of the Endowment house. Mr. Rawlins of Utah replied to Mr. Morse, and worsted him very badly He opposed the amendment proposed relative to polygamy as too complex but expressed willingness to accept a simple amendment prohibiting poly-gamous marriages forever.

Mr. Harter opposed the bill on the ground that it gave a sparsely-settled Western Territory too much influence in the Senate.

The general impression seemed to be that his real object was to prevent the election of two more free currency Democrats to the Senate. The debate will conclude tomorrow as most Republicans have withdrawn their opposition and it he everged it will pass. tion, and it is expected it will pass by an overwhelmng majority.

In the course of his remarks, Mr

Iwelve Hundred Riflemen Ready to Resist Any Arbitrary Action-Willis Pleading for Delay-Other Points of Importance.

By Telegraph to The Times.

HONOLULU, Dec. 4 .- (Copyrighted, 1893 by the Associated Press, via Victoria, B. C., Dec. 12.) Since the arrival of the steamer Warrimoo on November 24, political events have followed each other with startling rapidity. When the Warrimoo arrived with Cleveland's ultimatim, the Royalists were jubilant, and the annexationists at once began to carry out their previous plans of forcible resistance in case the steamer China, which arrived three days later brought instructions to Minister Willis for the restoration of the monarchy with the aid of United States troops. Within twenty-four hours, six hundred annexationists assembled at the drill-shed behind the executive building. The meeting was short, but wildly enthusiastic. The spirit of 1776 pre-vailed. Those who heard the ringing cheers which welcomed the speeches of President Hatch of the Annexation Club and the presentation of the follow-ing resolutions knew that the monarchy. even though restored by the superior forces of the United States, would be short-lived. Since the mass-meeting, the enthusiasm among the Royalists is fluctuating, and their clearest headed leaders admit the success of restoration depends on the armed tion of the monarchy by the States. The resolutions adopted by the states. The resolutions adopted by the meeting were as follows:

"Resolved, that we read with surprise and regret the recommendation of the Secretary of State of the United States to the President to restore the monarchy lately existing in Hawail,

"We condemn the assumption of the Secretary that the right of the provisional government to exist terminated by his refusal to resubmit to the Sen-ate the treaty of union pending be-tween the two countries, and also his assumption that the provisional gov-ernment submitted the question of its continued existence to the arbitration of the President, or any other power We will support to the best of our abil-ity the provisional government in resisting any attack upon it which may be contrary to the usage of nations."

The adoption of the resolutions was preceded b speeches by many leading citizens, the chief of which being the speech of President Hatch, of the Annexation Club. Hatch said: "Fellow-citizens; You have been invited to-night to discuss our political situation. We are confronted by the declaration must be restored and our government destroyed. His representative has given us an opportunity to be heard be-fore final action is taken. At present we are proceeding merely upon news-

Let us hope the distinguished Secretary has been misinformed. It is certainly our prerogative to stamp out the false assumptions and challenge them. Now, chief among the false assumptions is one which seems to underlie the whole letter—that there has been submitted to the President of the United States for arbitration the question whether or not we had a right to establish a government in this country. Gentlemen, I challenge that assumption. (Cheers and cries of "You are right.")

The assumption is false in every respect. Let me point out that two parties can make a contract but it re-quires the consent of three to make valid arbitration, that of the parties in interest and the arbitrator. It is absure to contend this could be sub-mitted to arbitration by inference or

"First—Has the provisional government submitted to the decision of any-body its right to exist? No; not one, word or act could be produced in support of that contention. From the very nature of things, a government which started in revolution, though now a government de jure and de facto, could not submit the question of the legality of its existence through any arbitration, because its right lay in its might. Having satisfied our consciences as to the justness of our cause, we depend upon our might, and are an-swerable to no other power. I brand as false the claim that we put in issue the question whether or not we are proceeding legally in oversuring a justify that assumption. An arbitra the existing status. On gaining his seat, the President of the United States immediately lowered the American flag and thereby changed the status of the parties. (Cries of "Hear! hear!") That was not the act of a judge, gentlemen. Again, has he notified anybody that he was proceeding with a judicial investigation? Has he given any notice that the hearing would be held on such a date? Has he notified anybody that witnesses were being examined? Has he given anybody an opportunity to cross-examine these witnesses or to confront them? (Cries of "No, no; he

"No, we do not need the acknowledgment of that distinguished judge, now Secretary of State, to know that no ar-bitration could stand for a moment in law, however insignificant the matter, which was conducted ex parte, without an opportunity to be heard. How was the late arbitration conducted in Paris? Did a number of gentlemen get to-gether, or not? Did they send a private agent to Bering Sea to look about and scratch his head (laughter,) inter-view his neighbors and make a report? (Laughter, cheers and applause.) Gentlemen, it can hardly be contended the provisional government, and we representing the supporters of that government, have submitted our rights to exist to Col. James Blount of Geor-

"The President of the United States had an undoubted right, so far as we are concerned, to examine into the status here, the situation of the country, etc., as bearing on the question whether or not he should continue the negotiations pending when he took his place. Active preparations, both for defense and aggression, if necessary, were begun the day after the arrival of the steamer China. Two hundred and fifty men were put to work fortifying the executive building. The verandas were fortified with three tiers of sand-bags. The roof will be similarly treated. Companies of sharpshooters, all trained men, will occupy the four corner towers from basement to roof. The preparations thus far made will allow the government to handle with great resistance a force of from seven hundred and fifty to eight hundred troops in the executive building, and ammunition and stores have been provided to withstand a continuous attack for one month, or more though a treasure to the executive building is supplied by an artesian well on the grounds. Careful inquiry has put the Associated Press in possession of the fact, in case of defeat, the revenues of the government have already been secreted, and the government will be reorganized at other headquarters.

The first action by the authorities here after the arrival of the text of Blount's report was to remove Fred Wunderberg from the clerkship which he holds in the Supreme Court.

AN UNDERSTANDING.

It was learned upon the best authorities here after the arrival of the supreme Court.

It was learned upon the best author It was learned upon the best authority, coming directly from Royalist sources, that British Minister-Resident Wodehouse has lately stated to different persons in Honolulu that there was an understanding between President Cleveland and the English government that the monarchy should be restored. In private political circles here on the appreciation side the opinion has been that the monarchy should be restored. In private political circles here on the annexation side, the opinion has been freely expressed that the presence of the British cruiser Champion here at the present time was owing to the fear of the English Foreign Office that President Cleveland would not be able to carry out his policy.

STRONG TALK.

This theory reached the executive, and the Advisory Council held a special session, in which Mr. Brown intro-duced the following resolution, which was unanimously recommended by the councils to the executive:

'Resolved, that the executive coun-"Resolved, that the executive council inquire of the American Minister whether his instructions were covered by and in harmony with the letter of Secretary Gresham to President Cleveland. If so, whether he was instructed

'Resolved, that should the answer be in the affirmative, these councils rec-ommend that Mr. Willis be immediately ommend that Mr. Willis be immediately given his passport and the ex-Queen be made a prisoner of state."

The fear of the councils seems to be that the British will offer protection to the ex-Queen in case Cleveland fails to restore her. This is the chief reason for the notice which has been given foreign officials not to land troops without perthe notice which has been given foreign officials not to land troops without permission of the provisional government. The provisional government will send important dispatches to Minister Thurston either by the steamer Arowa, today, or by the Oceanica, which sails on December 1.

ond, the determination of the government to hold the situation against any attempts to overthrow it, either by revolt or by foreign interference; third, that the only proposition submitted by the provisional government to the United States was a proposition for annexation; fourth, that throughout, President Dole has refused in all diplomatic matters, to commit the provisional government, to a policy binding upon Hawaii in case of adverse action by the United States Congress.

The fact is to be emphasized that no question of arbitration has been submitted by the provisional government as assumed by Secretary Gresham, Thurston will be instructed that the position taken by him is the correct one, and the one upon which the government here will insist with force, if necessary. It is learned that, as Blount interviewed but two of the original Committee of Safety, the Government will also, forward to Thurston for his use, affidavits from the remaining eleven members as to the facts happening from the date of the promulgation of the new constitution to the time of raising the Stars and Stripes by ex-Minister Stevens.

A PROTEST.

In view of the attitude assumed by President Cleveland, American citizens President Cleveland, American citizens yesterday presented a protest to Minister Willis, which has been numerously signed, in which they set forth that as citizens of the United States they have done nothing whereby they forfeit or waive their full legal and constitutional rights as such citizens. The document contains slx type-written pages of recitation before the signatures, and closes with the following words:

"And the undersigned hereby solemnly and respectfully protest to Your Excellency and to Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, and Walter Q. Gresham, Secretary of State, to Hilary A. Herbert, Secretary of the Navy, and to Rear-Admiral Irwin, commanding the United States naval forces now in Hawaiian waters, and to all now in Hawaiian waters, and to all concerned, that any such acts of war, or hostility, if taken, attempted or announced in the time of profound peace now existing between the United States and the Hawaiian Islands, or without any full, formal, timely announcement thereof, will and would be a cause for all concerned in that authority to for all concerned in that authority to be responsible for all consequences that may ensue the prometer of the consequences that may ensue the prometer of civilized nations and observances of civilized nations in their dealings with each other, and will, and would be, in violation of the rights of the undersigned, secured and belonging to them as citizens of the United States of America."

THURSTON'S ADVICE.

Immediately upon the arrival of the Australia, yesterday, the Council held a special session to hear official dispatches from Thurston. These strongly advised the provisional government to hold the fort. The idea is growing here that Minister Willis will refuse to act and will probably resign before he will carry out Cleveland's restoration policy. He refuses to be interviewed, and, at present writing, it is not known from any hint or word which he has dropped, either to the provisional government or elsewhere, what course he will pursue after the arrival off the Alameda, due, here on December 21, with Washington dispatches in answer to his application by that vessel for final instructions.

BLOUNT'S REPORT.

BLOUNT'S REPORT.

Blount's report raised a furore of indignation in ooth annexation and Royalist camps. The Royalists denounce both Wunderburg and Colburn, and the annexationists claim the report is one-sided and garbled. Minister Damon declares that the only direct questions Blount put to him were ex parte testimony, and have been published, while the entire balance of the long and seemingly friendly conversation which could throw a flood of light on the question has been eyidently suppressed.

BEGGING OFF.

The fact has been commented upon

The fact has been commented upon here strongly that one or two letters were received from Mrs. Blount by frineds here, asking them not to judge Mri. Blount and his adverse report too severely, as he was in no way to blame for his action.

THE FINANCES. The financial condition of the gov rement continues to improve. The surplus has arisen to $169,749, and the surplus has arisen to $169,749, and the total cash resources, last Thursday, were $272,959. But, while the government's finances have not, as yet, suffered, and probably will not, as the taxes for this period are now flowing in great financial depression has resulted since the news arrived of. President Clevland's unfriendly attitude. Both sugar and commercial stocks have dropped in value, and business is generally stagnated. Investments have ceased, and there is no money to lend on any security. Capital is being withdrawn from the banks, and both local and foreign commerce will remain crippled so long as the present crisis and political excitement continues.

C. Smith. editor of the Star, have gone over until the February term of court. The request for a continuance was based on the declaration of the ex-Queen, that she would refuse to attend court when called for the defense. This would force the government to bring her into court, and commit her to iall if she refused to testify, as she further threatened. The government, therefore, requested the defense to allow the trial to go over, as the action which they would be obliged to take might place the ex-Queen before the world in the light of a martyr during the continuance of the present crisis. C. Smith, editor of the Star, have PASSPORTS. In an interview with one of the cab-inet, last evening, the fact developed that in case of further trouble, the exthat in case of further trouble, the executive council will at once carry out the recommendation of the advisory council to hand Minister Willis his passports and declare the ex-Queen a prisoner of state. From a semi-official courier it was further learned that should the British Minister make any attempt at interference, either on behalf of the ex-Queen or England, the recommendation of the advisory council will be extended at once and Minister Wodehouse will also be handed his passport. While this will probably be the course which the provisional government will take if an emergency arises it cannot, at the present writing, be officially verified as the cabinet refuses to answer further than the determination arrived at concerning Minister Willis.

Vice-United States Consul William P. Boyd will be married on December 12 to Miss Carmen Vida, an English girl, at present working in the interior office.

ONE DAY LATER.

The Canadian Pacific Proposition Again to the Fore. HONOLULU, Dec. 5.—(Copyright, 1893, by the Associated Press; via San Francisco, Dec. 12.) The steamer Arowa was held over until noon, yesterday, to al-low Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Trade and Commerce, of Ottawa, Canada, to address the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Bowell was ac-companied by Theo H. Davis. The application was first made to President Dole to use his influence to call the Chamber of Commerce togethe to listen to Mr. Bowell's commercial propositions which are now known to have had a semi-political significance. Reporters were excluded from the meeting and it was impossible to get off a report of the meeting by the Arowa, though Mr. Bowell carries with him a verbatim report by his secretary which will probably be published upon his arrival.

verbatim report by his secretary which will probably be published upon his arrival.

In his speech, Mr. Bowell asked the Hawaiian government for financial encouragement for the new Canadian-Australian ship line, and called attention to the available Canadian market for Hawaiian products. He also spoke of the importance of the proposed cable line between Canada and Hawaii, and invited the Hawaiian government to send representatives to the conference to be held in Canada next year. Members of the cabinet were seen shortly after the meeting yesterday norning, and even their guarded expressions of opinion oncerning the intent and purpose of Mr. Bowell's proposition showed that the real sheme behind his speech, as reported, was preliminary to a proposal for a new treaty to be entered into on the part of England, through Canada, with Hawaii. In answer to your correspondent, one of the cabinet said:

"Of course, no proposition has yet been made. We have nothing before us; but, it is not likely we will enter into any new relations, unless forced to do so by the attitude of the United States. Yes, I am inclined to believe that the hand and influence of England is behind this proposal, and that a proposal for a new treaty will be made, even before the time for the a proposal for a new treaty made, even before the time expiration of the reciprocity treaty with the United States. I certainly believe England is trying to gain a foothold here."

The rumor of disaffection in the government here, which has been going ermment here, which has been going the state of the sta ernment here, which has been going around for some time, proves on in-quiry to be without foundation. The policy of resistance to either internal policy of resistance to either internal or external force has received the unanimous consent of the government. This is stated upon the best authority. Although two applications have been made by the Associated Press correspondent for an interview with the excueen, since the arrival of the steamer Australia, both have been denied. In each case he was referred to the Hon. Paul Neumann, who now seems to be the soleradviser and director of the ex-Queen's policy and actions.

Yesterd's evening the town was filled with rumors that the ex-Queen was to be restored this morning at 10 o'clock. Later it was learned that the rumors had arisen among the native boat-boys, and was the occasion of official visits, in the morning by United States Minister Willis to the British cruiser Champion, and by Rear Admiral Irwin to the Japanese cruiser Nawiwa-ken.

Capt. Whiting, who will be married this evening, will leave with his bride by the steamer Australia on next Saturday for the United States.

When asked to express an opinion on the news from Hawaii, he said: "I have received no private dispatches from Hawaii, as yet. The news contained in the Associated Press dispatch is in conformity with what I expected to hear."

When pressed to talk further on the subject, Mr. Thurston declined on the ground that it would be impolitte for him to comment on the attitude of the United States government toward the country which he represented as a diplomatic official.

"At the unanimous and urgent demand of American citizens, the provisional government has decided to resist to the utmost extremity any attempt to overthrow them by the United States forces, without authority from Congress. Leading citizens will generally be foremost in defense. Indignation is at white heat. They say there will be no surrender to the rotten Kanaka despotism. Twelve hundred volunteer riflemen are ready to answer a call with large Maxim and Gatling batteries.

"It is stated that by President Cleveland's arrangement with England the Champion's marines are to fend and protect the Queen after the United States forces have seated her on the throne, and that a joint protectorate has been planned. The Royalists expect restoration by December 20. There is general alarm, and a strengthening of defenses. Minister Willis is pleading with the government to take no action before the return of the steamer Alameda, on December 21. His instructions are still secret."

The patients gave no trouble. None of them seemed to realize the danger of the situation. None of them made any efforts to resist the attendants. Scarcely five minutes had elapsed before every patient had been safely ants. Scarcely five minutes had elapsed before every patient had been safely put aboard the Peters. When the Garnett arrived she took the patients on to Tiburon. Nobody was hurt. The Leader sank within ten minutes, and now lies at the bottom of the river. The Peters continued her trip, and arrived in this city at 10:30.

LATER DETAILS

The collision between the steamer J. D. Peters and Leader, occurred 109 yards below Pittsburgh Landing, and five miles from Antioch. The Leader was hugging the port bank and was moving rapidly with the strong ebb tide, under the captaincy of I. F. Petizinger, who was also in the house. Pilot J. M. Andrews Peters blew one whistle, and the answered and gave two for the Peters to go to the left. Both steamers were hugging the same bank. The Peters then gave a simple whistle, and as it was impossible for the Leader to then take the other bank, her pilot rang the balls to back her, and gave three whistake the other bank, her pilot rang the bells to back her, and gave three whistles for the Peters to stop and back. The Peters crushed into the Leader on her starboard side, between the bow and gangway, and in ten minutes she sank to the hurricane deck. The patients were removed, many without their clothing, to the hurricane deck, and from there to the Peters. The Peters has two holes stove in her bow, one large enough for a small boy to crawl into. Tarpaulins were nailed over the breaks, and the steamer arrived here at 10:30, with considerable water in her hold. Four hundred sheep and a lot of rye and potatoes went down with the Leader.

THE REPORT OF CHIEF GLASS.

The annual report of Chief of Police Glass to the Council, which was printed in full in yesterday's Times, would be n interesting document at any time being very far from the cut-and-dried recital of facts and figures which Usually constitutes the reports made by heads of departments. cially interesting and will be read with more than usual interest just now, when the conduct of police affairs occuples so large a share of public atten-

Mr. Glass praises the efficiency of the police force and recommends that their pay be increased. He shows that the Los Angeles police officers now receive smaller pay than the officers of any other city on the Pacific Coast. A slight increase in the force is considered ssary. He also very properly ask that the city shall guarantee officers continuous employment during good be havior and that they shall only be removed for cause and after a fair investigation by the Police Commission-ers; further that the State law regarding police insurance to provide a fund for disabled and aged officers be put in force. Among the other good recom mendations of Mr. Glass which have been made now several times in these reports but which do not appear to have had any effect on the Comculare. that the police should be supplied with arms and drilled in the use of the same, that new quarters should be provide for a jail in place of the present rotten institution, and that the police de-partment should be taken entirely out of the demain.

The sections of the report which are devoted to the questions of gambling and saloons will naturally attract the closest attention. These subjects are treated by Mr. Glass at considerabl length and in no uncertain tone. In regard to gambling, the Chief states that while gambling in Chinatown has been almost stamped out, there has been a marked increase of playing for money the game known as draw poker, which cannot be surpressed under the pres-ent law, owing to the fact that it has been declared to be a "scientific" game. Mr. Glass reports that there are now no less than forty clubrooms in this city. mostly in the rear of saloons or cigar stores, where this and other games are played which offer great opportunities to theft and enable their proprietors to live in luxury. Most of this money obtained from young clerks and other employees who are thus tempted to rob their employers or from men of small means who thus get rid of money which is needed by their families. In his the following strong, pertinent and unmistakable language:

"My experience as a police officer has brought me firmly to the belief that there is no such thing as an honest gambler; nor can any man who understands the matter, be honest and be an advocate of gambling. The taking of money or other property by the tricks or chances of cards and honesty are not habits of the same man. And the experiments tried by the officers of some other cities, of permitting gambling in a semi-public manner, and radding the games occasionally for the purpose of obtaining revenue for the city through the means of fines, have in all cases proven disastrous. It has been demonstrated that gamblers attract to a city large numbers of other classes of thieves, and that where free gambling is permitted free stealing is found.
"I will in the future as I have in the 'My experience as a police gamoung is permitted free stealing is found.

"I will, in the future, as I have in the past, use every possible legal means to suppress this vice, and every gambler arrested will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law; and I earnestly ask of your honorable body all the aid that you can possibly give me by ordinances, in suppressing those games that are not prohibited by our State law, but which are none the less gambling, when played for a consideration. The evil is great and increasing."

On the subject of saloons, the Chief calls the attention of the Council to the calls the attention of the Council to the necessity of amending our license ordimany places in this city, some of formerly saloons, the licenses of which were revoked by the Police Commissioners, that are run as restaurants, and under restaurant licenses, and with sandwiches and lunches their proprietors are selling large quantities of liquor; and many of the saloonkeepers have fitted up restaurants in connection with their places to enable them to sell liquors Sundays, and the courts have decided that parties can cided that a sandwich is a meal. Mr. Glass says that he will use all possible Glass says that he will use all possible legal means to enforce the Sunday-closing ordinance as long as it remains a law, but that it becomes a farce if the saloonkeepers can open small restaurants in connection with their saloons, and sell any quantity or kind of fluor by selling a lunch at the same time. He recommends that a license for restaurants where fluors are sold should be made $50 per month, and that the Police Commissioners should have Entered at the Los Angeles Postoffice for transmission as second-class mail matter Chief of Police should be a sufficient answer to the band of yelping curs who have for, some time past, been snap-ping at the heels of Mr. Glass, For reasons well-known to themselves, and which do them no credit, they have een persistently endeavoring to prejudice the public mind against Chief of Police, and to make the public believe that he has willfully neglected to carry out the law in regard to gambling and the sale of In this report Mr. Glass shows as far as lies in his power. Not only this, but he goes further, and points out the means by which the City Council might make it possible for him to fully en-force the existing laws.

The responsibility for these two uestions of gambling and illicit liquor selling is thus thrown upon the Council. It will be impossible to deceive any intelligent member of the com-munity longer on the subject or to cast dust in his eyes by pretending that the reason for the existence of evils which are now complained of must be sought at the police station. The Chief has shown that he is not only willing, but anxious to deal effectively with violators of the law if he is given the power to do so. The question is. Council give him that power And, if not, why not? Citizens would also like to know whether the Police Commission is in favor of a stern and unvielding enforcement of the law rewould like to have the reasons of that body. Citizens of Los Angeles have grown weary of this protracted and apparently interminable game of bat-tledore and shuttlecock, in which the attempt is continually made to shift the responsibility for action-or rathe for non-action-from the Council to the Police Commission, from the comm sion to the Chief, and back again. It City Council and of the Board of Police Commissioners showed themselves other words, the citizens would like to know just where these gentlementare "at" in relation to the subjects under discussion. This, however, is apparently just what several of thes officials are determined that the public shall not know. In evading every op portunity of placing themselves on rec ord, they display all the coyness of bashful school girls. If it were only bashfulness that troubled them they might easily be forgiven, but there is a lingering suspicion on part of the public that these honorable gentlemen are not such fools as they sometimes try to look there are those who go so far as to say that the reason why these men so persistently endeavor to avoid de claring themselves either for or against the enforcement of certain laws is be cause they fear to antagonize certain to keep astride of a high fence. It is position which they cannot maintain indefinitely, and the sooner that they make up their minds to come down on one side or the other the better it will be for their future prospects. For years the twin evils of gambling and illicit liquor dealing have been the most prolific source of demoralization in our city government, giving rise to scandal after scandal, and smirching the reputation of scores of officials. In most cases the difficulty of dealing with these questions has been com-plicated by the fact that the head of the police department has not been in sympathy with the movement for re-form. The case is now different. We have a Chief of Police who declares himself desirous of enforcing the law to its full limit, if he is only given the power. The past record of Mr. Glass lends weight to this declaration. Let let us settle these questions of gam-bling and filleit liquor dealing, which have occupied so much valuable time in the deliberations of our city government that might have been to more important subjects. In any action which it may take looking to the proper enforcement of these laws, the Council may be sure that it will have the hearty support of every re-spectable, law-abiding citizen. What others say or think on the subject should have no weight with that body. du ventre-it sounds better in French than it would in English—and now the New Yorkers will be boasting how much more proper and moral they are than those vulgar Chicago people. All the same it is said that the Chicago papers have to suppress a good many of the racy stories which are telegraphed to them from the New York papers because they are a little too strong for the appetite of the average Chicago reader. As far as the Chicago people are concerned, they are so accustomed to brag about being ahead in everything, that it would

New York. The French government has intro-duced and passed a bill modifying the existing press laws. The new bill makes it a penal offense to publish inwhould be made $60 per month, and that the Pollo Commissioners should have power to deal with restaurant licenses in the same manner as they now do the same such flow as this necessary if the sale of the licenses to be punished by imprisonment. The bill, of course, met with strong opposition, but in view of recent events it certainly appears to be justifiable. The person who, by public violence, induces others to probably annoy them to be informed that their city is not so wicked as break the law is really more guilty than the man who acts upon his suggestion because such an article in a newspaper may be the means of leading scores o may be the means of reading scores of people to commit violence. Fortunately in this country cases are extremely rare where newspapers advise people to commit violence or outrages. Should the time ever come for such a restric tive law in the United States, which we trust will never be the case, we have to doubt that it would be indorsed by a great majority of the press and people. The liberty of the press is one thing; newspaper license is quite an-

A Washington dispatch states that Secretary Gresham has little the future of our trade relations with the Spanish-American republics on which the late Secretary Blaine pinned his expectations, and prefers to believe that China offers the best field for an extension of our markets. In accor-dance with that belief, he is said to be eady to negotiate a new treaty with the Celestial Empire.

It is novel move which the dispatches Islands proposes to make, that of applying direct to Congress to settle the question of their relations with the United States without reference to the President's recommendations. It would be a strong and "fetching" card, but probabilities are that circumstances will shape against any necessity there-

The annual report of the public library shows that the total circulation books during the year was 420,401, a very large number for a city of this size. In fact, if library statistics are of any value, those of this city in-dicate that the population of Los Angeles is an exceptionally intelligent one

AMUSEMENT RECORD. AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

COMING ATTRACTION.-Charles L Davis, who has not appeared in this city several years, will present his popular down-east comedy, "Alvin Joslin at the Los Angeles Theater, Monday December 18. The piece is said to be beautifully and elaborately staged, every realistic detail receiving the most scrupulous attention. The Chicago

Globe says:

"'Alvin Joslin' is one continuous laugh. Mr. Davis, as old Uncle Alvin, is excruciatingly comical, while his portraiture of the New England farmer deserves to rank high in the extensive gallery of American stage creations. The star is supported by a carefully-selected company, and every role is in the hands of a thoroughly-competent artist, the result being a very evenly-balanced and enjoyable all-round performance."

CETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Handle Them Gently. LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—(To the Ed-tor of The Times.) I think it would well for some of our garbage mer take a course of lessons on the art to take a course of lessons on the art of handling boxes, cans, etc., contain-ing garbage on their rounds of gather-ing it on certain mornings during the week. Are they to be classed with baggage-smashers?

It is no little trouble to keep the utensils in repair with the handling they have undergone sometimes. It entails upon house keepers both trouble, and time that is precious to tails upon mousekeepers both froutie, expense and time that is precious to them, on account of the manner in which the garbage is dumped and the boxes thrown upon the ground. If they were to consider that those boxes are the property of the people who had bought and paid for them with money of their own earning, does not that argue that due care should be exercised with regard to them?

It is wonderful to see how short a with regard to them?

It is wonderful to see how short a time it takes, with the few moments they are handled, to reduce them to a wreck—a mere semblance of what they were. Not to mention the time wasted wreck—a mere semblance of what they were. Not to mention the time wasted and lost and, perhaps, thumbs or fingers smashed while repairing them, or exclamations uttered, or ebullitions of, wrath; the oaths and objurgations made should be, ought to be, sufficient to deter them from being so careless. As public officials "dressed in a little brief authority," they should treat the people as under their care, as they are hired and paid to do the same. X. Y. Z.

Another Convention for Los Angeles. ceipt of a communication from C. G. Cadwallader of Philadelphia, secretary of the International Association of Ticket Agents. He writes to say that the association has decided to hold its annual convention in Los Angeles

This association is composed of coupon ticket agents over the United States. Canada and Mexico, and numbers from 500 to 600 members. A WORKINGMAN'S LAMENT.

Over the hills to the poorhouse,
I'm wending my weary way,
And altho I'm a good mechanic,
Why, I haven't a word to say.
We went back on our good old party,
To make better times in the land;
Now I'm on my way to the poorhouse,
With naught but a staff in my hand.

We cussed the Republican party, We cussed its protection and sich, We dammed its so-called bosses And said it was in the last ditch; For Harrison he was a gold bug.

And Reed was a gold bug too; Well, I'm on my way to the poorheus For no work can I find to do.

And now, as I pass 'long the highway,
I'm kicking myself for a fool,
and asking if God in His mercy
Has room for me here in His school
I sighed for a change and I got it,
And now pray to be rid of the load;
Last year I was working right steady,
And now I'm a tramp on the road.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

Increasing Visitors' List—An Attractive Point for Tourists—Various Notes. The opening of the present tour-ist season has special significance to the Soldiers' Home, from the fact that this is the first since the railroad fa-cilities have brought the home within the list of accessibles, as since its founding it as been one of the interesting points along the Southern Coast. The effect of this acces-sibility, existent since the Southern Pacific branch was opened, in March last, is already noticeable in the vis-itors' list.

The home is in many ways an interesting spot. The very spirit of its formation—a nation's beneficence to its time—worn veterans—has its attractions, as is attractions, as is attractions, as is attracted by the number of visitors to the Eastern branches, where there are less special features than here. For instance, the number of visitors to the central branch of the home, located at Dayton, O., during a recent three months, reached a total of 137,000. But here there are many special points that add to the general interest, prominent among which is the splendid showing, which the home's surroundings present of the possibilities of this section in landscape gardening. The lawns, shrubs, trees and flowers, cared for with an assiduity which shows them at their best, are an object lesson in what nature here contributes of beauty for man's enjoyment, when aided by industry and invitations for a wedding reception to the rules of the contributes of beauty for man's enjoyment, when aided by industry and invitations for a wedding reception to the rules of the section in the same invitations for a wedding reception to the rules of the section of the many special points that he had received much benefit from a direction of Sir Andrew Knew who his particular their stated that he had received much benefit from a direction of Sir Andrew Knew who his particular their stated that he had received much benefit from a direction of Sir Andrew Knew who his particular their stated that he had received much benefit from a direction of Sir Andrew Knew who his particular their stated that he had received much benefit from a direction of Sir Andrew Knew who his particular their state that he had received much benefit from a direction of Sir Andrew Knew who his particular their state that he had received much benefit from a direction of Sir Andrew Knew who his particular their state of the received much benefit from a direction of Sir Andrew Chemical Character of the relized at the state

Perhaps at no place in Southern California are the extremes closer together than here, and to this condition may be added the cordial welcome by both officers and men. Visitors are accorded every courtesy, including the services of a salaried guide. The number of visitors attests the public apservices of a salaried guide. The number of visitors attests the public appreciation of all this, the total for the last fiscal year, ending June 30, reaching 18,000—an average of about fifty per day. This will unquestionably be greatly increased for the year ending in June next, as the year past had only four months, and those not a tourist season of regular train service to the home.

December is still free from any additions to the home's death roll. During the month to date there have been two discharges by request of the men themselves—one by a member since October, 1889, the other only a member since January last.

While the audience was gathering, the organist of the church, Mrs. J. G. Oglivie, played the "Toccata" by Dubois, and "Chanson Ballade" by G. Bachman. Upon the entrance of the bridal party, the "Lohengrin" march heralded the happy service, and immediately upon conclusion of the ceremony, Mendelssohn's wedding march sounded its ioyous strains. The solemn words at How Our Timekeepers are Now Made and Repaired.

> Many Elegant Watches Ruined by Incompetent Handling by Repairers-The So-lution of a Very Difficult

There was a time when watches were large, clumsy affairs, meriting the name of turnips, which was derisively applied them. They were made somewhat on the plan of the clocks of the present day, them. They were made somewhat on the blan of the clocks of the present day, and needed an especially large vest pocket to accommodate them.

In those days, watchmaking and repairing were much easier tasks than they are today. At present, the watchmaker's trade is one requiring years of practice to become at all expert in. A deft hand and a ready eye are prerquisites, and constant study is necessary to keep up with the continual onward stride in methods and machinery.

How many fine watches are ruined by careless or incompetent handling! No matter how expensive a watch may be, some time it will need adjusting or repairing. In the course of its perpetual motion, some screw has become loose, perhaps. Then it requires doctoring, and it must be sent to a hospital. But where? On the answer to that question may depend the future of the watch, for between the competent and the incompetent watchmaker lies a gap as great as that between life and death.

Fortunately for citizens of Los Angeles, the answer to this Too Beautiful to Live.

(London Spectator:) The pride and flower of all the youth of the Zoo is the young hippopotamus. As it lies on its side, with eyes half closed, its square nose, like the end of a bolster tilted upward, its little fat legs stuck out straight at right angles to its body, and its toes turned up like a duck's, it looks like a gigantic new-born rabbit. It has a pale, petunia-colored stomach, and the same artistic shade adorns the soles of its feet. It has a double chin, and its eyes, like a bull calf's, are set on pedestals, and close gently as it goes to sleep with a bland, enormous smile. It cost £500 when quite small, and, to quote the opinion of an eminent grazier, who was looking it over with a professional eye, it still fooks like "growing into money." There are connoisseurs in hippoptamus breeding who think it almost too beautiful to live.

Details of the Murder of George Neale.

Struck With a Hatchet and Thrown Overboard.

Written Confessions of Capt. Smith Introduced.

Silberry, the Murdered Boy's Companion Tells the Whole Story on the Stand or Demeanor.

When yesterday's session was brought to a close in the United States Circuit Court there were but few, indeed, among the crowd of spectators who filed out who were not thoroughly convinced that George Neals went down to a watery grave on a raw morning of last December after being brutally cut by the master of the sloop Lou with a hatchet.

Neale's last words were: "I die a horbrutally cut by the master of the sloop Lou with a hatchet.

Neale's last words were: "I die a horribie death," as he sank beneath the waves, stained crimson by the blood that flowed from the deep wounds in his breast and arms. The youth of the victim, the mode adopted by Smith, and other attendant circumstances, made the murder one of the most revolting ever committed in this section of the country.

Smith, with Neale and another boy named Silberry, went off for a trip to the islands, near the harbor of San Diego, to gather guano. One morning the rowboat, which had been tied to the stern of the sloop, was missed, and Smith was very angry thereat, thinking that the boys had cut it adrift in order to compel him to return home the quicker. He was obliged to weigh anchor and start for home without getting a cargo, and one morning, in a fit of anger, he struck Neale with a hatchet and threw him overboard. He thought also to kill Silberry, but did not, evidently believing that the latter would corroborate the story that Neale had fallen overboard and been drowned while on watch, when port was made.

inonght also to kill Silberry, but did not, evidently belleving that the latter would corroborate the story that Neale had fallen overboard and been drowned while on watch, when port was made. When arrested and placed in jall he made several statements, in which the killing was admitted, hence the defense in the case has only the theory of insanity to rely upon to save the captain's neck.

A jury was completed yesterday morning, and the case was proceeded with before Judge Ross.

The most important testimony introduced was that furnished by C. U. Silberry, who told in a graphic manner all the events of the voyage of the Lou and the murder of Neale. In response to questions put by the prosecuting attorney he said:

"Capt. Smith engaged me to go on a cruise early in November. We left San Diego on the afternoon of November 10. George Neale and Capt. Smith were the only other persons on board. The tides were not good so we did not make much progress at first. For several days we hung close around the islands outside We afterward went to White Rock where we were to get a load of guano. Smith seemed delighted with the prospect as the guano was very thick about the rock. He arranged to load up at once rigging a platform for the purpose. George and I went ashore one afternoon for mussels and spent a little time rowing around for pleasure. When we returned we fastened the boat by a few half hitches to the schooner and went to bed. Early next morning I was awakened by Smith, who called to me with an oath and asked me what I let the boat go adrift for. I told him that I did not, but he seemed greatly excited and accused George also of cutting loose the boat.

"I heard nothing until we were off the Coronado Islands. While I was off watch one day I was awakened suddenly by hearing George cry: "For God's sake, Sam, don't shoot me. I have been a good boy on this trip." Then again I heard him say, 'For God's sake, Sam, don't shoot; throw me an oar, I am dying a horrible death.' Then I heard a shot and went up and saw Smith sta near him. Finally he asked me if I had anything to do with cutting the boat adrift. I told him no, and he said he believed me.

"After I had cooked breakfast he heady finger-"After I had cooked breakfast he asked me to wipeoff the bloody fingermarks on the side of the cabin. Finally he asked me how we were going to 'fax' it. I was anxious to save my own life and I told him I would say when I got ashore that the boy was lost overboard and send any inquirers to him. He smiled at this and seemed satisfied. I told him perhaps George had got in to San Diego by being picked up by some boat. He said, 'Well, I hope he has.' He seemed pleased with this thought. After we came into the harbor I got a boat to take me ashore. "As I went off the Lou, Smith said to me: Take care of your mother, it is a serious thing to take the law in your own hands, and I am sorry for it now."

spent on board the Lou with Smith had been too terrible to be soon forgotten. The fact that Smith had made certain statements amounting really to confessions, while confined in jail, has been referred to. During the forencon yesterday, Attorney Hunsaker produced the following, written by Smith, and duly witnessed, which he read and had filed in evidence:

"SAN DIEGO, Dec. 5.

"This is to certify that I done a deed I have always abhorred, and I am becoming physically prostrated at, the thought. Oh that my life had ended before I did such a deed. I have requested an opportunity to secure some property to my friends after my just debts are paid, but I have not had an opportunity as yet to do so, and I hope the mob will spare me until I can do so.

SAMUEL C. SMITH."

Under the same date another page was written:

"I understand by the papers that an intense feeling is aroused against me, and as I can perhaps save the shedding of blood in defense of my person I concluded to make a statement of what led me into committing the terrible deed in a moment of frenzy through fear of great personal danger.

"On or about the 10th of last month I sailed on a voyage to the coast of Baba, Cal., in my schooner, named the Lou. I engaged Will Silberry and George Neale, Silberry at $15 a month and Neale at $25. I told them I had made the last two voyages in twenty-two days each, and we sailed on those conditions. They had worked for me some, discharging on the prior trip, and knew what weight of packages they had to handle. So we sailed and arrived on the 14th at the place intended, but the surf broke so heavy I went to another island, eight miles distant, and waited about three days. Then it was so we could land, and fill our sacks. We worked for two days, when it got rough again.

"Having nothing to do but to eat and sleep, Neale had been asking me when I though we would be ready to go. He said that Silberry had expressed a desire to go back several times, but that he did not care himself. I told him that I could not stop more tha small leak. When I had finished George proposed to Silberry that they go after some mussels. I gave my consent, and told them that they could take my rifle or fish lines, or anything that I had that would amuse them. When they came back at supper time. Silberry made the boat fast and left her astern, as I usually did in good weather. I arose at 9 o'clock to see how the weather was, and found everything all right. In the morning the boat was gone. The three half hitches had been cast off.

"I went forward to where Silberry was sleeping, and accused him of casting the boat adrift, and had some words with him. He denied doing it, and said that he would forfeit his wages if it was proven that he did.

"I then commenced to silp my cable and run the way leeward, in hopes of finding it, but was not successful.

"I again called the boys, and looked both squarely in the eye. Neale turned his head away, but never spoke a word. I said: 'My God, boys, how can I pay you when you have destroyed the ordy fheans I had of doing anything.' I told them that I was an old man, and had a sister to support, and that I wanted to lay up a little for my old age. I broke down, when I realized my situation. I had not encugh ballast to go back with. The boys both stood still and said nothing.

"Let any one imagine my position, alone on the high seas, with two young men, who had conspired to, and did turn my only means of securing a cargo loose."

"I said to them: 'Why did you not tell me that you must go home, and I would have taken in some more ballast, and saved my boat?"

"They never made any reply."

"One day, when we were about three days out, both went down forward, where they stayed an hour, and every now and then one of them would poke his head up and glance around, and then dodge down again, as if they did not care to be heard.

"I kept a rock and hatchet to defend myself in case of assault. Sometimes I remained nine hours at the helm, and for many hours I would lie awake in my berth, fearing an attack."

the witnesses that might give color to the insanity plea.
Several sea-faring men, friends of the murdered boy's family, and of Silberry's, testified to having made a search for the body, but that they had never found it. One witness thought it most probable that the sharks had eaten it, as they were known to abound in the waters where the boy had been thrown overboard. Old Capt. Smith seemed yet to hear the dying cry of the lad ringing in his ears, for when Silberry repeated the words yesterday, he almost visibly shuddered and sank lower in the chair beside his attorney, as the story so familiar to him was again lived over in words and imagination. As he says in his confession, so he undoubtedly sincerely does wish, that he had died before the bloody deed was committed. It is for the twelve men in the jury box to say whether or not life shall not be given for life, and the gallows avenge the murder of George Neale.

Semi-tropic Exchange.

The regular weekly meeting of directors of the Semi-tropic Fruit Exchange was held yesterday. There were present H. R. Smith of South Los Angeles, J. C. Sherer of Glendale, Silas Brown of Downey, A. Duffill of Rivera, and Dr. Hunt and John Burr of San Fernando.

The regular routine of business was transacted, and reports were made from all the local districts. Each reported favorably, and to the effect that new members are constantly coming in.

The districts have ordered their brands, and are getting ready to procure their material.

Regular bills were audited.

An extra meeting was held last evening at the exchange rooms, to adopt plans for marketing fruit. Nothing of public interest transpired. The organization is getting on a firm basis.

COURT RECORD. GRANTED THE WRIT.

Judge Shaw Decides That the City Auditor

Must Record and Number Miss Kelso's Demand.

The Treasurer, However, Not Compelled to Pay It.

The Case to Be Appealed to the Suprer Court-Assault Case Before Judge Smith-General Court Notes.

Judge Shaw yesterday granted the application of Tessa L. Kelso, City Liarian, for a writ of mandate to compel City Auditor Fred H. Teale to num-ber and record a demand for $200 on the library fund, for her expenses incurred as a delegate to the Librarians' Congress held at Chicago in June last The reasons for this decision, as set forth in a lengthy written opinion, are, briefly stated, that the Auditor is not required to answer for, or decide upon the legality of the action of the Board of Library Trustees taken after his ob-jections are overruled, but that he must number and record all demands, the Treasurer alone being required to decide whether or not a demand is lawful before he pays it.

In his opinion Judge Shaw says:

"When his (the Auditor's) objections have been made and have been overruled, it must be held that he cannot be allowed to persist in such objections nor to renew them. The effect of overuling an objection is to put an end to t. It cannot again be raised by the party who made it, unless another appeal is provided to a still higher tri-bunal, which is not the case here. If the Auditor could continue to make the same objection after it is over-ruled it would follow that he would be the sole and final judge of the validity and legality of all demands against the city. The intention of the charter is plainly the reverse of this. The ac-tion of the board in overruling his objecis plainly the reverse of this. The action of the board in overruling his objections is final so far as he is concerned. Strength is added to this conclusion by reference to sections 218 and 219. These provide that the Auditor must number and keep a record of all demands his objections to which have been overruled, but that the Treasurer is required to pay none except lawful demands. No discretion is here given to the Auditor in regard to numbering and recording demands, but the Treasurer is clearly required to decide whether or not a demand is lawful before he pays it. The difference in the phraseology must have been intentional, and the object clearly was to have a record made of all demands, whether legal or illegal. It was held in the case of Falk vs. Strother (84 Cal., 54.) under a law similar to this, that a mandamus should be issued to compel the Auditor to act after his objections had been overruled. Upon the authority of that case the appliction of the petition should be granted.

"The point is urged that under section 215 no demand can be audited 'unless it should be granted.

"The point is urged that under section 215 no demand can be audited 'unless it specify each several item, with the date

215 no demand can be audited 'unless it specify each several item, with the date and amount thereof.'

"Conceding that this demand is not so itemized, it does not follow that it should not be numbered and recorded. That action is no part of the process of auditing. By the definition of that term given in section 216 the auditing is completed when the objections of the Auditor are overruled and this action is indorsed and the demand. This demand therefore, is already audited, and section 215 does not apply. The fact that the board has thus audited a demand which is not properly itemized furnishes no ground for the Auditor to refuse to perform the subsequent duty of numbering and recording it. The Auditor is not required to answer for or decide upon the legality of the action of the board taken after his objections are overruled.

"It may be admitted that if it ap-board taken after his objections are overruled.

"It may be admitted that if it appeared, either on the face of the demand, or from the facts alleged in the answer, and proven, that the demand was for a matter as to which the library directors have no jurisdiction, and entirely foreign to the scope of their powers and duties, no writ of mandate would be granted. The law will not interfere to compel any officer to do any act to further the collection of a demand which is clearly and necessarily void and illegal, and will leave such a demand in the position in which comes within the same rule as that of any other tribunal, acting apparently within its powers, and will be presumed to be legal until the contrary appears. This action of the board does not com-pel the City Treasurer to pay this de-

City Auditor Teale will at once appeal the case to the Supreme Court.

CONVICTED OF SIMPLE ASSAULT. Alexander Caresa, a handsome and swarthy young Italian fisherman, ap-peared before Judge Smith and a jury In Department One yesterday, to answer to the charge of having as-saulted James Turner with a deadly weapon on November 13 last, at San saulted James Turner with a deadly weapon on November 13 last, at San Pedro.

It was shown for the prosecution that the defendant and his father, Salvador Caresa, while out on the fishing grounds in their skiff, became involved, in an altercation with Turner, who was close alongside, in his boat, as the result of which they struck him with their oars, and so severely injured him as to cause him to remain in bed for over a week afterwards.

Eye-witnesses of the affair, however, testified that after the Caresas had anchored their boat, preparatory to casting their nets. Turner steered his skiff alongside, and acted as the aggressor. The defense was, that on November 12, old Caresa, had found Turner's skiff adrift in the harbor, and, after towing it ashore, had tied it up at the wharf. Turner, upon learning of this action, thanked Caresa for his kindness, and gothing more was thought of the matter. Next day, however. Turner steered his skiff alongside of that of Caresa, and accused old Caresa of having stolen his skiff on the previous day. Caresa indignantly repudiated the charge, and denounced Turner as a lair, whereupon the latter raised his oar, and struck at the old manner that the oar fell on the gunwale of the boat and was broken. Alexander Caresa then came to his father's aid, and, by a well-directed blow with his oar, placed Turner hors de combat.

Upon this showing, the jury, after a deliberation of fifteen minutes.

blow with his oar, placed Turner hors de combat.

Upon this showing, the jury, after a deliberation of fifteen minutes, found the youth guilty of simple assault only, and the court ordered him to appear for sentence on Monday next.

Salvador Caresa, the father of the defendant, was also charged with the same offense, but, upon motion of the District Attorney, the case against him was dismissed.

DAMAGES FOR PERSONAL INJURIES The case of W. H. Gier vs. the Los Angeles Consolidated Electric Railway Company, an action for $50,000 dam-ages for personal injuries, alleged to ages for personal injuries, alleged to have been sustained by reason of the negligence of the defendant corpora-tion, came up for trial before Judge Clark and a Jury, in Department Two yesterday, the plaintiff being repre-sented by Messrs. Murphy and Gotts-chalck, and the defendant by John D. Pope. Esg.

chalck, and the defendant by John D. Pope, Esq.
The jurors selected to try the case were J. G. Carmichael, J. A. de Ccurcy, P. F. Ebert, B. J. Green, J. H. Hourmell, W. T. Lambie, C. J. Morrison, N.-F. Story, G. Weeks, J. Weber, J. S. White and L. Williams.
From the pleadings it was gathered that on January 29, 1892, plaintiff was employed by defendant as a conductor on car 105 of the University line; that at 11:40 a.m. of said date, while acting in that capacity, and enemployed by defendant as a conductor on car 105 of the University line; that at 11:40 a.m. of said date, while acting in that capacity, and engaged in opening the switch on Spring street, near second, by which cars were transferred from the north to the south track, he was caught between said car 105 and hill car No. 2, which was indicated to the switch, and crushed so severely as to permanently disable him. The accident, he alleges, was entirely due to the carelessness and recklessness of Motorman Dufrain, who at that time time had control of car 105.

The defendant, in its answer, enters a general denial to plaintiff's allegations, and avers that the accident was due to contributory negligence on plaintiff's part, he having signaled to the motorneer to proceed, although he was standing in an unsafe position.

Several witnesses who saw the accident were called on behalf of the plaintiff, and the matter then went over until this morning.

"The directors had the power to dismiss the suit pending against the Southern Pacific Railroad, and the testimony in reference to the manner of doing it is conflicting, and does not establish that the dismissal was fraudulent or collusive, therefore that part of their action will not be disturbed.
"Findings and judgment will go for the plaintiff in reference to the other branch of the case."

PROBATE BUSINESS.

In the Probate Court yesterday, Judge Clark transacted the following business: Estates of Charles Sallee and Thomas Alexander, deceased, final account allowed, and distribution ordered: estate of Francisco Palomares, deceased, account of administrator allowed: estates of W. L. Brown, and M. A. Collins, deceased, letters of administration granted as prayed for; estate of F. The Regular Weekly Meeting of the Commissioners.

statement of ex-Sergt. Morton and ex Officer Valencia-Saloon Licenses Acted Upon-Other

The Police Commission met yester The full board was present ex George L. Arnold, the newly elected commissioner, and that gentle-man, after having qualified, walked in when the deliberations of the session were about half concluded.

In response to a petition from H. H. Johnson, a saloon license was issued to him for the place at Alameda and North Main streets, it being explained that the license for the place had been, at the last meeting, revoked, because of a misunderstanding about the same being delinquent.

Commissioner Bradish said there were two men of the ten recently appointed who, it appeared, did not have their names on the Great Register. They were James W. Bell and Joseph Mcwere James W. Bell and Joseph McDonald. He moved that these two men be discharged from the force, and that ex-Sergt. Morton and ex-Officer Valencia be reinstated.

After a moment's discussion it was agreed that the motion should only include the dismissal of the two men. The vote stood: Yeas, Bosbyshell, Bradish and Rowan—3; nays, Weldon—1. It was decided that the dismissal should take effect January 1.

A motion to reinstate ex-Officers Morton and Valencia, the same to take effect January 1, was then carried by the same vôte as that by which Bell and McDonald had been dismissed.

The Chief reported on the petition of Jean Lenert, for a saloon license at No. 209 Ferguson alley. Action on the petition was deferred one week. On motion of Commissioner Weldon, Frank O. Wilkinson was appointed to serve on the force for four months.

The Chief reported favorably on the application of W. W. Everett, for an appointment as special officer, without pay from the city, and the same was accordingly granted.

The applications referred to the Chief were from Wallace & Gutsch, for transfer of license at No. 712 East First street, from E. S. The Chief reported on the application of Thomas Cohn, for a transfer of license at No. 1146 East First street, from Lawrence Schmidt, and action on the matter was deferred one week.

A communication from the City Council called attention to the fact that the city jailers were being employed twelve hours each per day.

Chief Glass said he wished to make a statement in reference to this matter. The jailers, it was true, on duty twelve hours each per day. When their duties in that capacity were done they scarcely ever had anything else to do. They seldom, if ever, had to be in court, as did the other officers: they did not have to be out on parade or inspection. They were allowed to go out whenever permission for the same could reasonably be granted. As for the other officers on the force, they were spending a good deal of time outside of their regular duties. Outside of their time for being on regular duty, they were going about the outskirts of the city, and "rounding up" the tramps and suspicious characters, so that, in reality, the regular men were working from ten to twelve hours per day. He was ready characters, so that, in reality, the reg-ular men were working from ten to twelve hours per day. He was ready to take one of the men from the beats and have him serve as jailer, if the board so desired. He did not wish to be tenacious in reference to keeping only two jailers, but he was inclined to think there was some misapprehen-sion in reference to it.

TEN MINUTES OF TERROR.

TEN MINUTES OF TERROR.

A Tarantula Under His Shirt Was Enough to Scare Even a Texan.

The bite of a tarantula is almost as dangerous or as fatal as that of a rattlesnake, and, without prompt attention, the sufferer dies in an hour or two. It was from one of these creatures that John Thrummer of Fredericksburg, Tex., received a fright lately that nearly turned his hair white in ten minutes, says a writer in the Philiadelphia Times. Putting on his outershirt a few mornings ago, he felt something fall from one of his sleeves on to his breast, and through the opening of his undershirt on to his naked flesh. Looking down he saw an enormous spider coiled up, and seemingly half dead from cold. But, getting warm from the heat of his body, it presently began to straighten out its long limbs, covered with coarse, red bristles, and before Thrummer could knock it out was plainly its old, aggressive self. Mr. Thrummer did not dare seize it, with his fingers, lest it fasten on them, nor did he dare to make any movement to dislodge it for fear that it would instantly fix its jaws in his flesh. He called his wife softly, but she was asleep. He dared not lean over to touch her, so he continued to call her, until at last she opened her eyes. Then he told her to get up and take the tongs and remove the creature as quickly as possible, so as not to give it warning of what she was about lest it might bite him.

Mrs. Thummer, from her husband's quiet tone, thought at first that he was jesting, and pulled open the shirt to look for herself, when she saw the tarantula. The creature also saw her, and, still clinging to the man's breast, bristled all over with menace. Therefore, getting up without more noise than could be helped, she ran for the tongs and approached the spot where the insect lay. But, as if it divined she was about to seize it, it suddenly ran up to Mr. Thummer's left shoulder and over on his back. Only able to guess at its exact whereabouts, Mrs. Thummer was at first drynd between the prongs of the tongs, held it firm held it firmly, squeezing it as tightly as she could, endeavoring to kill it, or at least render it so that it would not be able to bite. Another of the family now coming in, the shirt was cut away.

THE YUMA TREATY. THE YUMA TREATY.

The treaty with the Yuma Indians has been completed. The treaty has been signed by all Indians over 18 years of age, and now only lacks future action by the government to make it effective. The Yuma reservation is composed of 45,000 acres of land, of which 15,000 can be irrigated by a gravity canal from the Colorado River. The number of Indians is between six and seven hundred. They will each receive five acres of land. In addition to this, 200 acres, which includes all the buildings on the reservation, will be set aside for school purposes and an experimental farm, the latter to be in charge of a competent instructor. About eleven thousand acres of good land will remain, which will be surveyed into ten-acre lots and offered for sale to the highest bidder for cash, after being appraised and advertised sixty down. If the 46,000 acres of land in the sale to the highest bidder for cash, after being appraised and advertised sixty days. If the 45,000 acres of land in the Yuma Indian reservation are divided up, and ten acres given to each of the tion indians, according to Agent Rust's count, the 33,400 acres left to be sold to the public at $50 per acre would give to each Indian, old and young, male and female, about $1440 each.

Gov. Hughes returned yesterday

ben in conference with Yuma county fitizens regarding the colonization proposition. Yuma county has been setested by the Italian fruit-growers of Palermo, and 15,000 acres of land lying between the Gila and Colorado rivere will be utilized. The land will be divided up in small tracts of ten or fifteen acres, as the Palermo fruit-growers cultivate a small amount of land, but they do it thoroughly. Ten members of the colony are now in New York, and will start immediately for Arizona. They will make estimates on canais and make general preparations for the colony, which will be here by spring. Father Gamboa, the originator of the plan, is expected in Arizona soon. No better class of immigrants are now coming into this country than the educated, well-to-do class which Fathers Bandini and Ganbino propose to settle in Arizona.
The proposed Italian colony will be made up of an industrious, thrifty class of fruit and grape-growers, and will do much toward the opening up

The Maricopa County Horticultural Society met at Tempe last Saturday. RIVERSIDE COUNTY.

Complaint About the Street Lighting—Another Good Indian.

With both gas and electric lights it would naturally be inferred that River-side is a well-lighted city. But such is far from the case. The gaslight is is far from the case. The gaslight is wretchedly poor, and none of it is used for street filumination. The electric lights, too, have been unsatisfactory: the incandescent as well as the arc lamps. Besides the city attempts to provide an insufficient number of lights, the total number of street lamps being but nine. Redlands, with a population of scarcely more than half that of Riverside, has already thirty lights, and arrangements are being made for putting in others. San ing made for putting in others. San Bernardino, with a population of about 50 per cent, greater than Riverside, has more than ten times as many lights, there being ninety-three arc lights in that city. Although there has been no concerted action on the part of the cities and the secure more lights. zens to secure more lights, there is constant complaining of the dark and gloomy streets. Several accidents have resulted recently from the lack of lights.

ANOTHER GOOD INDIAN.

Jose Miguel, an Indian, was found dead in a ditch by the Colton road near this city on Monday. He was last seen about the middle of the afternoon on Sunday riding on horseback toward the ditch, where his body was found. He was undoubtedly intoxicated, as he was known to be in that state much of the time. He had $2.75 and a jackknife in his pockets, but no whisky or bottle. He wore spurs, and from the marks upon the ground his horse threw him off in jumping the ditch, and he struck upon his shoulder and rolled over. burying his face in the soft mud. WORLD'S AND MIDWINTER FAIRS. The Loring Operahouse was crowded on Monday night to see the stereopticon exhibition of the World's Fair and the buildings of the Midwinter Fair, and the excellent views presented were well worth an evening's time to enjoy them. Nearly every one has seen so many pictures of the magnificent buildings of the late White City, that it would have been more attractive had there been more views of the things they contained, especially of the statuary and paintings. The lecture, however, added little to the entertainment. Mrs. Harland's volce is not pleasant, her story is not well prepared, nor did she tell it well, and her attempts at humor were very flat. Mingled with all the enjoyment of the splendors of the great White City upon the lake, in the hearts of its most appreciative visitors, was the regret that so soon this magnificence of architectural glory, this triumph of achievement and marvel of our ninetenth century civilization must vanish from the world's sight and be among the things that were. But comparatively few of the thousands visiting the World's Fair could linger long enough to take in all its splendors, or the splendor of the comparatively few of the thousands visiting the World's Fair could linger long enough to take in all its splendors, or the splendor of the comparatively few of the thousands visiting the World's Fair could linger long enough to take in all its splendors, or the splendor of the wholesale stamp department of the who enough to take in all its splendors, or the great Exposition as a whole; and it was with reluctant feet that they turned from it, regretting that so soon it must all become but a dim and shad-it must all become but a dim and shadowy memory.

Anticipating this feeling, the authors of the magnificent work before us have sought to perpetuate in an enduring form the leading and most attractive features of the World's Columbian Exposition, and in a large and handsomely-bound volume they have spread upon alternate 'pages photographs of the original buildings; the State buildings, the buildings of foreign nations, the Court of Honor, exhibits, the warship Illinois; the lagoon, temples, pavilions, gardens, fountains, statues, the Midway Plaisauce and its scenes, and all that entered into the complete and beautiful whole—all described upon the alternating pages in vivid and beautiful language. It is a book for the millions who saw or only heard of the fair, and it will be an enduring monument to its imperishable memory. It is a work of 529 large pages, and the printing and illustrations are in the highest style of art, and worthy of the rare wonders of achievement which the volume commemorates.

croft. (San Francisco: The Bancroft Company.)

Americans at large have not concerned themselves in past years as fully as might be about the affairs of their sister republic, and a lamentable ignorance has existed in the United States in regard to the people, resources and general condition of Mexico, the border land of our modern civilization. The well-written and charmingly illustrated work before us deals with the most interesting features of Mexico's history, and places her before the world as she is today. The first chapter is devoted to a general view of the country, its position, area, population, climate, races, characteristics of its inhabitants, etc., while the succeeding chapters tell the reader of its intellectual development, means of communication, mines and mining, agriculture, stock-raising, manufactures, commerce, material development, labor and immigration, and all matters of general interest. With the author's help, guided by his vivid pen, we traverse the land and become at home a mong its people. Such works are a valuable addition to any library. ANOTHER JUANITA, and other Stories. By Josephine Clifford. (Buffalo: Charles Wells Moulton.)

This little volume is characteristicly Californian, full of the breezy freshness, bloom and beauty of the Golden State. The author has the rare gift of being an interesting writer of short stories, and possesses the capacity of giving to them a sense of completeness that is most satisfactory to the reader. "Toby" is a tale of tragic inferest, and not once does the reader's attention halt. "An Episode of Fort Desolation," affords, like "Camp Life in Arizona," a glimpse of what a soldier's life may be amid those wild Western wastes of loneliness, haunted forever by the murderous Apache. The little volume holds many a picture of life as it is found in the great West, and on the sunny plains and flower-crowned slopes of California.

THE BOOK OF THE FAIR. Parts IV and V. (Chicago and San Francisco: The Bancroft Company.)
This great work is being published in semi-monthly parts of about forty pages each. The work will consist of 1000 imperial pages, 12x16 inches, and when complete will contain over 2000 of the most artistic illustrations. It is printed on heavy paper of the highest enameled finish, and will be a finished story of the great Columbian Exposition as it was—the wonder and marvel of the world's civilization. It will not let the great fair die for it will remain an epitome of it all.

Magazines.

The Century (New York) for December is worthy of the Christmas time. Among its interesting features we note "Old Dutch Masters." Rembrandt, Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselar; "The Poets," Thomas Bailey Aldrich; "A Christmas Sermon." Phillip Brooks; "Fleur-de-Lis," Kate Douglas Wiggin; "The Flve Indispensable Authors," James Russell Lowell; "Pudd'nhead Wilson I," Mark Twain: "The Gentle Side of Two Great Southerners." George W. The Overland Monthly (San Francisco) does not fall behind other leading magazines, in its current number. Among its leading articles we note "The Advertising Page," W. H. McDougal: "Gardens of Christmastide," Ella M. Sexton; "Netje," Marie Frances Upton; "With Pick and Shovel," Henrietta R. Eliot: "The Voice of California." Emma. Frances Dawson. The poetry of the number has much of variety and interest. One charm of this magazine is that it is distinctively Californian—the atmosphere of the Coast is about it. It promises very handsome things for the coming year, and Californians should take pride in its upbuilding.

The Review of Reviews (New York) for December brings one who carefully peruses its pages, abreast with the world's changes and progress. It is the one magazine which the busy man and woman cannot afford to do without. Among other things considered in the current number are "Mr. Gresham's Hawaiian Policy" "The Mission of Mr. Willis:" "The Future of the Islands;" "The Elections and Tariff Revision;" "The Elections and Tariff Revision;" "The Sovernment as a Winning Issue." A coat will be cut and made to fit six different sizes. It will be made to take apart and change into three different styles—a cutaway coat, a Prince Albert style, and a full-dress coat. Gordan Bros. expect to get the medal for the tailors' art, as they keep three men the tailors' art, as they keep three men working exclusively on that coat, in their own working-rooms, at No. 118 South Suring street. They want to show the public that any one ordering a suit of clothes at Gordan Bros., tailors, can get their full money's worth of wear out of them, as they have the facilities to do so, by carrying constantly on hand a large stock of woolen goods for customers to select from, and in selling at prices that cannot be beaten, as they are direct importers of woolen goods, and they sell importers of woolen goods, and they sell goods by the yard to the trade.

It seems that a report had reached the minister to the effect that the boys had been doing some gambling, and brad conducted themselves at the Armory so that it would be injurious to young men. Accordingly, the minister in one of his sermons, denounced the boys in no uncertain language, and immediately the war was on. The boys felt that they had been outraged, that the State military law forbade gambling, and they immediately demanded an apology. The minister them wrote a letter to the company, saying he had been misinformed, but the company would not accept it, and demanded a public retraction. This the minister did last Sunday, and everything would now be straight except that the boys infer that the charge is still against the band boys, who occupy a room across the street from headquarters. The matter has caused some hard feelings, which fact is unfortunate, because, as a rule, the military boys pride themselves on their good behavior. The minister is one of the most popular in the city, and further developments are looked for with interest.

Every pew was filled, and as many extra seats as could be brought in. The speaker's introductory remarks brought out the genuine and the counterfeit in societies, professions and trades. He very forcibly demonstrated the absurd idea in some minds that only the church has hypocrites, and showed very forcibly that there is more hypocrisy practiced outside of the church than within. His subject Tuesday evening was the "Paschal Lamb." Accommodations were made for the overflow in the lecture-room.

His Case Called for Trial, but the Defendant Failed to Materialize-Story of Bruce, the Alleged James W. Bowers, the festive young barber from Norwalk, is now conspicu barber from Norwalk, is now conspicu-ous by his absence. Bowers is charged with breaking into Tom Drury's barber-shop, this city, and stealing a quantity of razors, clippers, shears and other harbers' tools, to the value of about $150. Upon his examination some weeks ago, on this charge, before Justice of the Peace Humphreys, he was held to answer to the Superior Court in the sum of $1000 bonds. His trial was set for yesterday (Tuesday) but the young man did not show up. His father came down from Norwalk, and stated to the court that his son went to Los Angeles Monday, without went to Los Angeles Monday, without went to Los Angeles Monday, without his knowledge, since which time he has not been heard of. Mr. Bowers stated that he was away from his home Monday for a short time, and that, during his absence, the young man left on the north-bound train; that word was sent to him at once by the family, and that he went to Los Angeles on the evening train to look for him, but could not find him anywhere.

fellow's father, who is a resident of Norwalk.

The fact that the accused has now fled, is taken as conclusive evidence that he is guilty of the charges preferred against him. Upon inquiry and investigation, it was ascertained that the young man is a very dissolute character, and that he bears a hard name in and around Norwalk, where he has lived for a number of years.

F. L. Bruce is the name of an old man 52 years of age, who was brought down from Los Angeles early yesterdown from Los Angeles early yester-day (Tuesday) morning, by Marshal Nichols, charged with forgery. Bruce forged the name of T. E. Cleland, a thresher on the San Joaquin Ranch, to an order on the firm of L. Gildmacher, this city, for $27, which, when presented, was pald in full. At that time Bruce gave the name of John H. Wood as his own name. The forgery was soon discovered, and a warrant was issued for Wood, alias Bruce, as it was believed he was the man who committed the crime.

Bruce was finally located in Los Angeles, and arrested by Detective Benson, as stated in another column of The Times Tuesday morning.

Bruce was taken before Justice of the Peace Humphreys upon arrival, and his examination set for 11:30 o'clock a.m. today. He was placed under $1000 bail.

a.m. today. He was placed under $1000 bail.

According to the story told by the prisoner he is rather to be pitied. He says he lived in Eureka. Cal., about six months ago, where he received a letter from Mr. Cleland asking him to come down and go to work for him on the ranch; that he did not have any money, so he walked all the way from Eureka to Santa Ana, and when he went on the San Joaquin ranch he found Mr. Cleland had all the help he wanted, so there was nothing for him to do but to look elsewhere for employment.

He will no doubt plead guilty to the charge of forgery today when he is brought up for examination.

THE SHERIFF AND THE TRAMPS.

There was a strike in Santa Ana Tuesday morning, when Sheriff Lacy and Deputy Sheriff Buckley brought out the long line of "hobos" from the County Jall and provided each one with a shovel and other tools to use in the work set apart for them on the river bed. All answered to roll-call promptly, except one large, red-headed ruffian, who thought he could bluff the officers and bose the same binned in this water. Then the whole gang, except one, who is only a mere boy, struck, refusing to work, and going back to their cells. The boy wanted to work, and said he would do anything the oficers had for him to do. The Sheriff went about placing the strikers back into prison, and when they saw that he was in dead earnest they weakened, and all came out willing enough to at least go through the motions of work in order to get a square meal occasionally. The line of march was then soon taken up, and, after walking two and a half miles, the gang were set to work along the river bottom. Up to noon the force was all busy at work. The officers were seeing to it that there was no loafing, and, although there were curses and threats galore, the "gentry" were given a little actual experience in the matter of earning a living by the sweat of their brows, for some of the fellows did actually perspire, so unusual was their exertion.

SECOND SEMI-ANNUAL CONVENTION

SECOND SEMI-ANNUAL CONVENTION The Jefferson Club of Santa Ana and delegates from the other Southern Calidelegates from the other Southern Callfornia clubs of the Lyceum League of America will meet in convention in the clubrooms in the Mosbaugh Block, on Saturday, December 16.

An extensive and interesting programme has been arranged and great benefit is anticipated from this meeting of lyceums. The clubs in this district form a part of the league which has members in every State, with head-quarters at Boston.

In the evening the delegates will be addressed by Hon. J. W. Ballard of Tustin, at Spurgeon's Operahouse. Admittance free, and everybody is invited.

TEACHERS' MEETING.

The teachers of the city public schools met in the Central School-buildschools met in the Central School-building, Monday evening, in regular monthly meeting with a large attendance. Miss Mary Hamaker gave an exercise in writing from the fourth grade, and Miss Cora Williams interested her listeners with an exercise illustrating the Ling method in calisthenics, with a class of eighteen girls from the subjunior department of the High School. After this exercise there was a spirited discussion among the teachers over the merits and demerits of the subjects first presented to them. The meetings are becoming quite repular and are of great benefit to the teachers.

We are well aware that our friend, Col. McDivitt, would be an ornament to any crowd assembled anywhere on the hurricane assembled anywhere, on the hurricane

of a Well-known Citizen-The Old Trouble With Orange-growers Again Cropping

The San Diego District Methodist Episcopal Church Conference met in this city on Monday and Tuesday, at which Rev. E. S. Chase, presiding elder of the district, presided.

The exercises opened with devotional service, conducted by Rev. E. Hoskyn of Highland and East Riverside, after which Presiding Elder Chase reported upon the condition of the district, which, he said, was much better, both spiritually and materially, than at any spiritually and materially, than at any time during the past five years.

Rev. A. Ramey of Arlington then read an excellent 'paper upon "Paul's Letter to Timothy." Rev. J. B. Green followed with a paper upon "How and When to Take Benevolent Collections," which elicited considerable discussion. The next paper was on the topic "What Kind of Christian Testimony is Helpful?" by Rev. T. W. Lincoln of South Riverside, and by the discussion it is evident that all are not wholly agreed upon this question. "The Relations of Benevolent to Spiritual Life" was the subject of Rev. J. C. The Tuesday morning service was opened with devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. J. C. Healy of Rialto, followed by a paper by Rev. W. A. Wright of Riverside upon "Does Our System Encourage Inefficiency in the Ministry?" He said that, though there are points which should be carefully guarded, the system did not, as a rule, do so. He advocated the renewal of the five-year time limit in the itineracy. Rev. Alfred Inwood spoke upon "Should the Primary Class Have the Same Lesson as the Rest of the School?" which was discussed at length.

PROMINENT CITIZEN PASSED AWAY

Col. W. R. Tolles, for twenty years a resident of San Bernardino, and one of the most prominent citizens of the place, died on Monday, after an illness of several months, leaving a widow and daughter. He was born at Watertown, Ct., April 10, 1823, and removed to the South when a young man. When the civil war broke out he removed to Burton, O., and enlisted with the first volunteers, and went into service as captain of Co. B. Forty-first Regiment, Ohio Volunteers. He returned to Ohio after the battle of Shiloh to assist in recruiting men, and then went to the front as major of the One Hundred and Fifth Regiment, and was promoted for galantry to be lieutenant-colonel, and then colonel. He was wounded twice, and his health failed before the close of the war, and he was compelled to go home. In 1873 he came to San Bernardino, and became active in public works, being for years president of the Board of Trade. He built the first house in Lugonia, now a part of Redlands. At the State Citrus Fair at Colton he was a member of the Executive Comittee, and his services there were the last of a public nature performed by him. A brief funeral service was held here on Tuesday, and the remains sent to his old home in Qhio.

The production of Handel's "Messiah" The production of Handel's "Messiah" at Simpson Tabernacle, Friday evening, December 22, promises to be a very important musical event. The Los Angeles Oratorio Society, under the direction of F. A. Bacon, have determined to present this beautiful and soul-inspiring work in the most complete and attractive manner, and on a scale of magnificence never before attempted on the Coast. The chorus of 150 voices has been selected from the best vocalists in the city, and is unsurpassed. The orchestral accompaniment of twenty-five pieces will be a spement of twenty-five pieces will be a special feature, consisting of the choicest talent to be procured in Southern California. The soprano soloist for the occasion is Miss Grace Miltimore, whose sweet voice never fails to captivate. Miss Jeannette J. Wilcox of Boston, contralto, and Josef Rubo, basso, are pronounced favorites in Los Angeles, and always heartily, welcomed. W. B. Chamberlain of Oberlin College, Ohio, an artist of national reputation, comes to Los Angeles to sing the tenor solos. He is said to have the best tenor voice in America for oratorio work. The inquiry for tickets has been simply unprecedented, and the society will therefore place the plat at Brown's Music Store, No. 111 North Spring street, Friday, December 15, at 9 a.m., so every one can have an opportantity to make acceptables. ment of twenty-five pieces will be a spea.m., so every one can have an oppora.m., so every one can have an oppor-tunity to make reservations. Simpson Tabernacle will be beautifully decorated and illuminated for the occasion, and no doubt it will be filled to overflowing by the best citizens of Los Angeles, who will thus encourage the society in their efforts to raise high the standard of local musical entertainments. entertainments.

The work of cleaning out the internal sewer system is progressing. Fire engine No. 2 was used yesterday on the Jefferson-street sewer, near Grand avenue. Water was pumped in at one manhole, and the sand was gradually washed through. The water was run into section No. 1 of the outfall sewer, and from that onto some land outside the city limits.

It is expected the chain-gang will be put to work, today, on the First-street hill. At the adjourned meeting of the City Council, held yesterday afternoon, Councilman Munson said that the Street ouncilman Munson said that the Street operintendent had stated to him that,

Superintendent had stated to him that, the injunction against the grading having, been modified, he inended to have the working city prisoners proceed with cutting down the hill.

Declared Not Guilty.

On Friday last the case of People vs. Simon Maier was tried in Justice Sea-man's court. Maier was charged with having offered for sale fresh deer meat while the game law in this State was in force forbidding the killing of deer or the use of their flesh for commercial or other purposes. Maler's attorney proved that the meat in question had been imported from Texas where no prohibitory law is in force, but even under this stateis in force, but even under this state-ment of the case the District Attorney contended that the dealer was liable to prosecution. This course was argued at considerable length and submitted to the court who took it under advise-ment until yesterday when an order was made finding the defendant not guilty.
